

Friends of Mashpee National Wildlife Refuge

Invasive Plants

A plant is invasive if it is both non-native and poses a threat to the habitat that it colonizes. Invasive plants can take over an area and outcompete native species for space and other resources. Invasive plants are harmful to native wildlife because they compete with the native plants that they eat.

Cape Cod Common Invasives

